Pasir Panjang

Southern Gateway of Asia

Imagine a prime waterfront site, three times the size of Marina Bay. That is the untold potential of Singapore's Master Plan for the Greater Southern Waterfront. With over 1,000ha of prime land, the Greater Southern Waterfront will stretch from Marina South and Tanjong Pagar, all the way to Pasir Panjang.

1 St James Power Station to be developed into an office complex.

2 Housing complexes among the greenery and water sports and leisure options. Island served only by autonomous electric vehicles.

3 Waterfront area with mixed use developments and new tourist attractions, serves as extension of the central business district with a high-tech hub for innovative, digital and creative businesses.

4 More cruise traffic at Marina Bay Cruise Centre and the Singapore Cruise Centre at HarbourFront.

5 Waterfront stretch links green pathways across the city, such as the Southern Ridges and Gardens by the Bay.

Live, Work, Play: Life By The New Waterfront City

LIVE

The current Southern Ridges (167 hectares) will potentially be linked to Gardens by the Bay and to East Coast Park. This connectivity from East to West stretches along 30km of waterfront which will enable all to walk and cycle via the connector.

This connectivity from East to West is not new in other First World cities, such as London, where cross rail has been introduced to cut short the traveling distance between the East and West.

WORK

- Presently, the nearby international schools and business parks, like Mapletree Business City, Metropolis, one-north, Science Parks 1 and 2 and HarbourFront, have a huge potential tenant pool of 35,000. This tenant pool will further increase with the integration of Sentosa and development of Pulau Brani. More office space will also be opened up as the national monument, St James Power Station, will be refurbished once its lease ends.
- The relocation of the current port terminals to Tuas will free up space for future mixed use development.

PLAY

- The reshaping of Sentosa and development of Pulau Brani will create more available space to develop theme parks of the future that incorporates virtual reality with rides.
- The current Marina Bay and HarbourFront Cruise Center will be developed further into a regional cruise hub for visitors.
